

I believe that the no call list should stay the way that it is,
If you allow the Consumer Bankers Association to have a special privilege to call upon customers then you are going to have to allow all companies that ask for a special circumstance to have these rights which will in turn destroy the system put in place to restrict such calls.